

Pipers Hold Top Place in District

Several Injuries Suffered Last Week in Merkel Game; to Play Snyder Here Friday

Despite several casualties suffered in last week's rough and tumble game with the Merkel Badgers, Red Burditt's Pipers had patched up their injuries and were ready this week to face the Snyder Tigers on the Piper field Friday night.

The Hamlin team defeated the powerful Merkel eleven by a score of 14 to 0, after the two squads had battled furiously during two periods without either goal line having been crossed.

Joe Allen Dean, stellar quarterback, was knocked from the game in the third by Wayne Douglas.

JOINT BAND CONCERT

Hamlin's High School band and the Snyder High School band will join in maneuvers and a concert between halves of the Piper-Tiger football game Friday evening. Walter P. Chalcraft, director of the local band, said this week. Richard A. Elliott, a college friend of Chalcraft, directs the Snyder band.

200-pound Badger backfield player, Douglas was ordered from the playing field by officials and not permitted to enter the game again as a result of his personal foul. Dean had some teeth knocked loose in the encounter.

Jerry Carr, Piper left tackle suffered a dislocated jaw when he was struck by a Merkel player.

Hamlin's first counter was set up when Donald Green grabbed a Merkel pass on the 50-yard line in the third period and carried the ball to Merkel's 30.

Dean, who had come back into play in the third period, hurled a 29-yard pass to Don Rowland, who stepped out of bounds in trying to evade a Merkel player on his way to the double stripe.

On the next play Dean plunged across to give the Pipers a 6 to 0 lead over the visitors. Dean kicked the extra point to raise the advantage to 7-0.

Hamlin's second tally came on a Badger fumble, in the fourth quarter.

After the Pipers had driven to Merkel's 5-yard line, the Badgers took the ball on downs. William Robertson, Badger fullback, took the ball on the snap-back and dropped it behind his own goal line.

W. T. Stapler, Piper left guard fell on the ball for Hamlin's second counter. Dean carried the ball across for the extra point, on a fake kick and run.

Twenty passes were attempted by the Dean-Rowland combination, and 11 of the attempts brought yardage gain to the Pipers.

Merkel's only serious threat came in the second, when Robertson passed to Mac Springer from Hamlin's 37-yard line to the five, but the play was called back.

The Pipers continued this week to lead the west half of the district and their defensive record was said to be one of the best in the entire state.

Undeclared in either conference on non-conference play, the Pipers have had only six points scored on them during the entire season.

Hamlin and Rotan ended the week as the only unbeaten teams in the west half of 6-A, Merkel having been dropped from the list by the Piper victory.

Snyder, which has won three games and lost three during the season, has two conference defeats and only one conference victory. The Tigers lost to Post last Friday 13 to 6.

Santa Fe Train Hit By Car at Crossing

Guy R. Campbell, 25, escaped with only slight injuries late Wednesday night, when his Ford coupe crashed into the side of a Santa Fe freight train across South Central Avenue.

Campbell was taken to the Hamlin Memorial Hospital for treatment, and released. His most serious injury was a gash in the forehead. He also suffered other bruises and abrasions.

The car, driven by Campbell, was badly damaged. The accident took place at 11:30 Wednesday night.

Campbell said he was not driving fast, and that he failed to see the train until he was within a very short distance of the tracks. He applied his brakes, but the automobile skidded into the train.

Hamlin Man's Mother Is Injured in Accident

Mrs. D. C. Rogers of Rotan, the mother of Charles Rogers of Hamlin, suffered injuries last Friday in an automobile accident three miles east of Rotan.

The car in which she was riding, driven by the Hamlin man, collided with a pickup truck driven by E. Morales of Rotan.

Neither of the drivers was injured. Mrs. Rogers was taken to Callan Hospital for treatment.

Textbook Banned by State Teachers Is In Use Here; Principal Is Surprised

Hamlin High School students, and members of the faculty went ahead this week studying the civics textbook that has been in use for several years, paying little attention to the protest raised by the principals of the state in convention in Houston Monday and Tuesday.

The book, one written by Dr. Frank Magruder, was said to contain communist propaganda, and the principals voted to ask that the text be banned from schools until a revision of certain objectionable paragraphs has been made.

Magruder, who is a doctor of human letters in Oregon State College, is said to spend most of his time in editing and compiling material for textbooks. The book in question was published in 1944, revised in 1945, 1947 and 1948.

Members of the principals organization said the earlier editions did not contain any of the objectionable material.

B. V. Newberry, principal of Hamlin High School, expressed amazement Wednesday when the matter was called to his attention, and said he was unprepared to say what action, if any would be taken by local school officials.

The objectionable paragraph was said to state "... the country is capitalistic with strong socialistic with strong socialistic and even communistic trends. The postal system, power projects and progressive taxes are bits of socialism; and public free education and old-age assistance are examples of communism ... to each according to his need."

Mrs. Magruder, when called by a newspaper reporter at her home in Corvallis, Oregon, said "It's a big joke, but in a way it is pathetic that it happened. It looks like somebody is on a witch hunt."

Hamlin Gins Turn Out 3,658 Bales of Cotton

A total of 3,658 bales of cotton had been ginned by the two Hamlin establishments prior to Thursday, managers of the firms reported.

The gins were slowed down by rains over the week-end, and Monday, but reported that only a slight delay in ginning was occasioned. The damp weather enabled the gins to catch up with the cotton harvest.

On gin manager said Thursday that farmers who go back into their fields too quickly after rains, suffer loss of considerable money in lower grades of cotton. If the cotton is left to dry on the stalk, he said, it will not suffer as much damage in price.

Houses, Apartments Even Rooms Needed

Houses or apartments, or sleeping rooms ... just anywhere to live!

That was the plea made this week by Mrs. E. M. Wilson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and an official finder of homes for homeless people who come to Hamlin.

Mrs. Wilson requested persons who have any kind of living quarters available for rent, to call 63 and list the accommodation with her.

She reported that the Contentual Geophysical Company wants to 16 employees and their families here, and the Oklahoma Geophysical Company also wants to send a crew into Hamlin. They are waiting the finding of living quarters before coming here.

Street Work Is Waiting Action By Santa Fe

Hamlin's street curbing and drainage project has been shut down for several days, and will not get underway again until the Santa Fe Railroad completes its agreement to put drain pipes under its tracks, Holly Toler, mayor, said Thursday.

The work of installing curbing and gutter on North Central Avenue was completed several weeks ago, and work was begun on curbing East Lake Drive, when crews in charge of the work had to be pulled off the job to await the Santa Fe's part of the project.

When the project was outlined, Toler said, the railroad company agreed to put in two 42-inch drain pipes, to carry excess surface waters from SE Avenue B, into the creek southeast of Hamlin.

It is planned to lower the surface of SE Avenue B to serve as a drainage canal for water that heretofore has collected at Central and Lake Drive.

Toler said Thursday the railroad has been promising to start construction on the project for several weeks, but no definite action has yet been taken.

He said the highway department crews will return here immediately to resume work on the streets, when the railroad finishes its part of the improvement program.

Meanwhile residents and business firms along East Lake Drive are plagued with a deep ditch between their property and the street, and traffic is unable to cross the mud-filled channel.

Egg-Cultured Vaccine to Protect Cattle

Eradication of rinderpest, the cattle disease which kills some 2,000,000 farm animals every year is now a practical possibility, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), reports. During the war American and Canadian scientists discovered that by growing the virus inside hen's eggs, speedy mass production of rinderpest vaccine is possible. Here, a FAO technician is seen harvesting egg membranes rich in rinderpest virus.

Council Says City Has Sanitary Law

Mayor Points Out Ordinance Passed in 1921 Is in Effect; Enforcement Difficult

Hamlin has a sanitary ordinance sufficient to meet the needs, it was pointed out this week by Mayor Holly Toler, following a discussion by the City Council of a petition filed by the Hamlin Civic Planning Board.

The petition had asked that a sanitary code be adopted here to provide for elimination of open toilets, and requiring use of the city's sewer system.

The request was made in a movement by the board to forestall any possible outbreaks of epidemics in Hamlin, caused by flies and other insects which frequent places of filth.

The petition was signed by every member of the board, representing numerous civic and service organizations of Hamlin.

The mayor's letter said the petition was read by the council at its regular meeting Monday, October 24.

The council asked the mayor to write to the board explaining that a proper ordinance is already on the city books. The ordinance was adopted in 1921 and requires all houses within 200 feet of a city sewer line to connect to the line.

However, the letter continued, "Enforcement is another thing to think about after an ordinance is adopted and when it comes to forcing one by law you would have to force all by law to abide by the ordinance."

"Maybe you and I would be able to spend the necessary money to abide by the ordinance, but what about the people that you and I know, who do not have the money to do this with?" Toler continued by saying that much thought and discussion has been given to the subject during the past three years, in hope of finding a solution to the problem.

He said the council still hopes to find some method for enforcing the ordinance without undue hardships on any individuals.

The reading was given by Bonita Mayfield. Others who appeared on the program were Ellen Doris Jones, Maggie Bolden, Emma Lee Green, Bobby Ruth Lockhead, Fay Vandant and Johnnie Mae Moore.

Leases Sell High At Boyd Chapel

Oil Rights Selling for High Prices in New Hamlin Oil Field; Completions Announced

Leases and royalties in the Boyd Chapel area, Hamlin's newest oil development, were selling at premium prices this week as oilmen bid against each other for the rights to drill.

Leases near the discovery well were selling at from $10 to $20 an acre, and royalties were going at from $100 to $250 per acre, oilmen reported.

Ungren and Frazier completed the M. Fansworth No. 3 last Friday, when they cemented casing in the Gunsight formation. Reports of tests on the well were not available but it is said to be a good producer.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company, has completed the Dickey Ferguson well, a west outpost to production in the Pardue - Toler pool. The well will produce from the Canyon Lime series.

When the Canyon Lime was first encountered it proved to be a tight formation with little indication of oil. Operators filed a permit application to deepen the hole for a test of the Ellenburger. After drilling only six feet into the Canyon Lime, ample commercial production was found to warrant completion.

On an initial drillstem test the well recovered 1,300 feet of oil in the hole. No official gauge has been announced.

General Crude Oil Company, drilling the C. C. Lopez in the Round Top area, was at 3,700 feet Thursday and expected a completion.

Final Rites for Mrs. Decker in Hamlin Thursday

Funeral services were conducted in the First Baptist Church of Hamlin Thursday at 3:30 p. m. for Mrs. Marvin Decker, 37 who died in an Abilene hospital Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Decker had been treated in the hospital for a heart attack. She had been in ill health for several months.

Rev. A. R. Posey, pastor of the church, was in charge of the services, assisted by Rev. J. B. Pruitt of Abilene.

Mrs. Decker, the former Velma Donham, was born in Roby in 1912. She was married to Decker in 1930, and they have made their home in Hamlin, where Decker is employed.

Mrs. Decker is survived by a daughter, Waynette, her father, W. E. Donham of Sweetwater; two sisters, Mrs. Odell Mayo of Sweetwater and Mrs. Boyd Lackey of Hamlin; two brothers, Bill Donham of Abilene and Ben Donham of Roswell, New Mexico.

Dr. W. H. Bryant, who recently filed an application for permit to drill in the Boyd Chapel area, will have a hearing on his application November 4.

Street Markers, Iron Posts Are Ready to Set Up

Hamlin's belated street markers are ready for erection, B. V. Newberry, chairman of the street naming committee, said this week—but the committee has run out of funds and has nobody willing to put them up without getting paid.

The markers arrives two weeks ago, and have have been assembled ready for immediate installation. The markers have also been paid for, Newberry said.

Angle iron, cut is 8-foot lengths, for uprights on the markers, also has arrived, and been paid for. Holes have been drilled into the iron lengths for bolting on the street names.

In fact, Newberry announced, everything is ready, except somebody to do the work of drilling the holes, mixing concrete and setting the uprights.

Money derived from the sale of houses numbers has paid for the markers and the angle iron, but not sufficient money has been received to employ a crew to erect the markers.

Pat Marlow, president of the Rotary Club, and A. G. Irwin, president of the Lions Club, have said they will name others from the two organizations to help work out a plan for erecting the markers.

Former Hamlin Girl Is Victim of Wreck

Miss JoAnne Lee, 20, former resident of the Hamlin community, was killed in an automobile accident near Lubbock two weeks ago, friends here were informed this week.

Valiant Fight Fails to Save Life of Little Teddy Nall; Death Hits Twice

A valiant struggle by doctors in a Fort Worth hospital failed to save the life of little Teddy Keith Nall, 13-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nall of near Hamlin.

The child died at noon Monday, after his heart had stopped beating for several minutes more than three hours before, and life had been brought back into the little body by massage of the heart.

The baby had drawn a bean into his lung about 8:30 last Friday evening, and his parents rushed him to the Hamlin Memorial Hospital. Following an examination here the parents were advised to take the child to an Abilene hospital.

En route to Abilene Teddy's breathing stopped and Nall applied artificial respiration until he resumed breathing. Three times during the trip, the father administered artificial aid to his son's breathing.

At Abilene doctors recommended that Teddy be taken to Fort Worth, and Nall continued giving respiratory aid on the entire trip.

Fort Worth doctors operated on the baby first at 12:30 Sunday morning, but the operation was unsuccessful.

At 8:20 a.m. Monday, three physicians were attempting to remove the bean from Teddy's lung when pulsations of his heart stopped. The doctors made an incision in his chest and began to massage the heart. Teddy's breathing resumed.

The doctor was able to get the bean out of the child's collapsed lung, but only part of it could be drawn through his windpipe. Several times the child's heart faltered, but picked up regular pulsations after each time.

Death came at noon Monday. Funeral services were conducted in the First Baptist Church here at 3 p.m. Tuesday, with Rev. A. R. Posey, pastor, in charge.

Survivors, in addition to the parents, are a brother, Charles, 8; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Jones of Slaton, and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Nall of Hamlin.

Burial was in the East Cemetery, directed by Barrow Funeral Home.

Straining at Gnats

News releases Wednesday told of stiff protests lodged by the state principals' association against a certain book used as a civics textbook in state schools.

The protest was against alleged teachings of communism purported to be contained in the book, and the association voted to ask that it be banned until it is revised.

A careful study of the paragraph singled out by the vigilant principals gives cause to wonder whether they are interested in combatting insidious communist propaganda, or if they merely wanted to obtain free publicity at the expense of the author.

The article is reported to have stated "The United States has capitalism subject to increasing governmental control. . . . The country is capitalistic with strong socialistic and even communistic trends. . . ." The author then pointed out that many of the innovations of recent years can be tagged socialistic.

Actually, the writer was voicing an opinion held by most of the men and women who continue to believe in the time-honored principles of the Democratic party. For more than 17 years many old-time Southern Democrats have viewed with alarm the increasing tendency of our leftist government to go down the road of socialism to statism.

For more than 17 years capitalism "has been subject to increasing governmental control," and for more than 17 years there have been "strong socialistic and even communistic trends" in high circles of official Washington. Can it be that the principals would condemn the writer of the textbook merely for having pointed out the truth?

Can it be that the leaders of this group have violated their own consciences by voting for more and more of the socialistic experiments that have almost succeeded in destroying our vaunted free institutions, and now they are jumping onto this obscure author of textbooks and using him as a whipping boy?

If any public school textbook advocates communism, then by all means it ought to be banned from the classrooms and relegated to the limbo of the ash heap. If any author seeks to lead astray the minds of adolescent youth by insidious propaganda, then beyond doubt he should be publicly pilloried and subjected to disrepute.

But, when an author merely points out trends that are so obvious all can see them, except some who are so blinded by the fanatic worship of the empty name of a political party, he is doing good and not evil.

The Herald—which by no stretch of the imagination should be called communistic—failed to become alarmed when reading the purported paragraph from the textbook. But the Herald is alarmed, and rightly so, at the evident truthfulness of Dr. Frank Magruder's charges.

This is an obvious case of "straining at a gnat, and swallowing a camel."

It Paid Dividends

The brand of sportsmanship displayed by the Hamlin Pipers in last week's game with the Merkel Badgers paid rich dividends in victory, in increased respect of the fans, and in general satisfaction that comes from a good job, well done.

Despite the fact that the Badgers resorted to roughness, the Pipers retained their sense of good sportsmanship and refused to retaliate in kind.

When Douglas, the big 200-pounder on the Badger team, was ordered from the field for a personal foul, the Hamlin fans were far more perturbed than the Piper players seemed to be. One member of the Hamlin squad told a Herald reporter that "We talked it over, and decided just to go ahead and try to play a clean game, and do the best we could."

Many spectators—including some who were disappointed—voiced the opinion that Douglas' rough tactics, which resulted in his expulsion from the game, contributed materially to the victory of the Pipers.

But at any event, the equitable sportsmanship of the Pipers paid big dividends—and their victory on the playing field was the least of these.

Caught In The Act

Gompers' Formula for Labor Gets High Praise; Boards' Use Decried

Considering how hard organized labor has fought for collective bargaining as a legal establishment, it would seem that union leaders, as a matter of course, would go all out to apply it. Instead, our present crop of labor chieftains, big and little, senior and junior, appear to place small faith in its effectiveness. On the slightest provocation, they leap from the conference room and go running to the government for intervention.

We have the steel dispute at hand for easy reference. Here the union leaders, side-tracking the principle of collective bargaining, made a demand on the industry based solely on figures supplied by a so-called "statistician." When told by the employers it would be impossible to meet this initial demand, the union leaders declined to approach the issue any farther via the avenue of collective bargaining. Threatening to call a nationwide steel strike, they cornered the President into setting up a fact-finding board. Apparently they were confident that a friendly President would appoint a board friendly to their side of the dispute and, with eyes glued on figures obtained from their own private "fact-finders," they looked forward to a decision strongly biased in their favor.

Possibly the decision of the board, when it came, was a disappointment to the leaders of the Steelworkers union—for it made no bones about pointing out that the steel industry could not possibly accede to full union demand. Being made up of honest, fair-minded men, the board rendered what it believed to be a fair opinion. Unable due to lack of time and technical knowledge, to learn all the facts, the President's fact-finders nevertheless dealt squarely with whatever facts did actually come to light. And herein lies a lesson for all labor leaders—a lesson that some of them may thus far have overlooked.

The likelihood is slight that any fact-finding board appointed by the President will ever be made up of crooks and imbeciles—chances are all such boards will match in integrity and mental capacity the one appointed to examine the steel industry. Very well, if organized labor in the future is to place its faith in such governmental boards rather than in the process of straight-forward collective bargaining, the day may not be too far distant when another such board will render another honest opinion—one which, based on indisputable facts, may possibly call for a reduction, rather than increase, in wages.

With eyes wide open to reality, Samuel Gompers pointed out the way for organized labor's surest advancement. "The hope of the public, the hope of the workers, the hope of all for peace and progress, for continuity of production and for safety from oppression, lies not in a state-erected machine," he declared, "but in acceptance by employers generally of the machinery of collective bargaining."

This practical goal has now been achieved, and every honest labor leader knows it. More than that, untold advantage has thus far accrued to organized labor as a result of that achievement. The wonder then is that at this late stage of the game, some of our greatest leaders of labor coldly turn their backs upon this basic instrument of effective unionism and go in search of the very state-erected machinery decried by Gompers.

If unionism is to enjoy long life, it must build on its own accomplishments—and one of the most sturdy of these is its collective-bargaining status, its man-to-man equality with management before the law. By relinquishing all this in favor of the dictates of government, organized labor is only digging its own grave. If the strike is to become but a device for the switching of government agencies into the picture, then unionism is only preparing its own body for burial.

All industrial disputes are eventually settled, either one way or another. Thus far, but one way has been discovered whereby they can be settled without loss to either side—namely, at the bargaining table, while the wheels of industry still turn and the men are still at work.

The unions have a grand slogan: "In union there is strength." But in this modern day of mutual enlightenment, that slogan is incomplete and quite outmoded. To it today must be added a second statement: "In UNION there is even greater strength." For labor is no longer a singing host on the march to attain its basic rights; today it is a responsible partner of management, with the details of the relationship still left to be worked out through thoughtful debate and conference.

If "union" was the watchword of the Dark Age of labor-management relations, then "unison" is the watchword of the Age of Reason in which we live today. Since this is something all of us must learn eventually—why not now?

He Had It In Him.

"Isn't it remarkable that Brown's luck should stay with him to the very last?"

"How was that?" queried the other.

"He was operated on for the removal of a pearl he had accidentally swallowed while eating oysters, and when the pearl was examined it was found to be valuable enough to pay for both the operation and funeral."

Modern Fable, Tale of Two Porters, Illustrates Motif for Real Success

Dickens wrote his "Tale of Two Cities" but this is a short, short story of two Pullman porters whom we encountered some time ago on a hurried trip from New York to a distant city and return.

Porter number one, who was lord and master of the car which carried us from New York. He was friendly, cooperative and most solicitous of our comfort. He made our journey a pleasant one—an extra pillow on the bed in case we wished to prop ourselves up while reading ourselves to sleep—as the upper bed was not being used, he hauled down the mattress and put it on the lower bed for our greater sleeping comfort—he put our hat in a paper bag for its protection—in the morning we found our shoes resplendently shined instead of the customary daub and smear. All these things and a dozen others he did beyond what was required of him by his boss—the Pullman Company. Net result—he got a generous tip.

By strange coincidence we drew the same car and the very same room for the return journey to New York, but not the same porter. Here we met porter, number two. This fellow didn't even perform the duties assigned to him by the Pullman Company. Desiring to turn in, we rang several times for him to come to make up our bed. Getting no response, finally we called on the conductor for help who found the porter asleep in one of the vacant rooms. Apparently he resented being disturbed for he made up our bed in a slovenly manner—giving no thought of double mattresses or an extra pillow and in the morning our shoes were a mess. Net result—he got a very small tip.

Now here were two men, working for the same company, in the same identical location, with the same tools and equipment. One cheerfully performed the duties required of him, plus—the other shirked his responsibilities with no thought of extras. Both had equal opportunities.

We will wager a new ten-gallon Stetson against your last summer's straw hat that porter, number one, owns a nice little home somewhere; has a fine wife and family; that his children are well fed and clothed and are getting a good education; that he has a nest-egg laid by in a savings bank and has an equity in life insurance; and that he is an asset to the community in which he lives.

We would also like to bet a hundred dollar bill against a plugged nickel that porter, number two, if married, has a wife and family domiciled in "wretched quarters; that they are poorly fed and ill-clothed; and that he has nothing put aside for a rainy day or old age. No doubt, he is envious of his fellows; complains bitterly of his lot and harangues against the inequalities and unfairness of the American system.

Two men on the same job, enjoying equal opportunity—one prospering, the other a failure. Yet, there are those who suggest that this thrifty fellow be penalized by giving a part of his well-deserved gains to the undeserving malingeringer. Our opinion is that this is wrong. What do you think about it?

Vermont is called the Green Mountain State.

REG'LAR FELLERS

That's Faith

By Gene Byrnes

YOU AUTO SEE TEXAS

By—HOWARD KING

Texas is a treasure chest of early pioneer or antebellum homes—type that people travel to Mississippi, Louisiana and Virginia to see. In many ways they are more interesting for few, if any, have been "dug up" for the tourists and they are well kept. Descendants of the original builders live in many of them.

Though speaking, they are of five types of architecture: Colonial, Victorian, Plantation, Ranch Style and Louisiana.

Beautiful examples of giant pillared Colonial homes are "Woodlawn," the Governor Pease home; the Governor's Mansion at Austin; and the "Le Grande House" at Tyler. The first two were designed by Hugh Cook and built from 1851 to 1853. Both were homes of Governor Pease.

To reach Woodlawn, drive out West 24th Street in Austin. It is a huge red brick with white columns, and is surrounded by giant oaks. Lamps on the entrance posts of the driveway are from the first Capitol, which burned in 1883. Mr. R. Niles Graham, grandson of Governor Pease, and his wife live there.

The Governor's Mansion is across the street from the Capitol building. It is a huge white house with six massive columns. It is furnished in antebellum style. Of special interest to visitors are the beautiful winding stairs, the Green Room, the Houston Room, the huge once used by Napoleon, and the coffee table made from a Civil War drum.

The Le Grande House at Tyler is quite a sensation. More "Oh's!" and "Ah's!" are heard there than you ever dreamed of. It is just like stepping into a fine home before the Civil War. Everything seems to have been preserved and it is as bright and shiny as a jewelry store. It is right in town about three blocks west of the Blackstone Hotel.

Partially hidden from the street by giant trees, its massive columns glisten in the sunlight. The back of the house is as grand and handsome as the front and opens out onto a six-acre garden. The home is owned by the City of Tyler and is maintained as a museum open to public. Two charming ladies present to show visitors through and to describe the house and its history.

The Le Grande House was built in 1859 by Captain Gallatin Smith, a bachelor who was killed in the Civil War. It was first called "Bonnie Castle" and was later the home of Dr. W. J. Goodman whose brass name plate is still in place. In the house is the "pharmacy" and surgical instruments of Dr. Goodman, all carefully preserved.

The front consists of a circular portico two stories high, with great round columns. At the second-floor level is a balcony enclosed by a turned wooden balustrade. The back is similar to the front and the balcony runs the width of the house.

Iron Lung for India's Polio Sufferers

To counter a serious epidemic of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), the United Nations World Health Organization (WHO) has been speeding iron lungs to India. Here the Director of WHO's regional office for Southeast Asia shows a group of nurses and officials how an portable iron lung, just delivered, operates. Altogether, WHO plans to send 20 of the big machines to India.

Under the north veranda is the service hall and kitchen, and under the south veranda is a portecochere. A central hall runs the length of the house and a circular stair leads to the second floor. Beautiful parlors with giant mirrors and crystal chandeliers are on each side of the hall. The ceilings are 18 feet high and the walls are finished in ivory. The windows are hung with rich brocade from gold cornices.

Furnishings are as interesting as the architecture. In the completely furnished house are choice Empire and Victorian pieces as well as complete sets of period furniture. There is a lovely set of Le Moge china imported from England as well as a large cut-glass bowl used to bathe the baby. Cases contain bridal dresses, shoes and accessories from four generations.

The extensive grounds are planted in rare shrubs and flowers and in the hot house are lovely camellias one of which is 85 years old. In the yard there is a fig tree planted in 1860. The entire place reflects the culture of the time.

Among the Victorian or rococo houses none is a better example than the Mary Key home located on the corner of South Bolivar and Crockett Streets, just south of the square in Marshall. This house actually was "the Governor's Mansion when the capital of Missouri was located there during the Civil War. This may sound like a "Believe It or Not" but it is true. Governor Claiborne F. Jackson and Staff lived here. The Capital of Missouri is just across the street.

Another beautiful example of this highly decorative type of house is the old Abe Mulkey Mansion located diagonally across the street from the courthouse at Corsicana. Abe Mulkey was a famous Texas evangelist of another day.

An outstanding example of the Plantation style home is "Liendo" at Hempstead. Built in 1853 by Leonard W. Groce, it was at first headquarters for a great plantation in slavery days but later became famous as the home of Elisabeth Ney, the internationally famous sculptress, who is buried on the grounds. She cremated her baby in the fireplace of the downstairs east parlor.

Harrisburg is the capital of Pennsylvania.

Canvas Shoe Left In Debris of War Aid to Research

A tattered canvas shoe found on a Bougainville beach after the bloody landing, ending the 1943 Solomon campaign, may prove that some good can come from such terrible devastation.

For that shoe may hold a secret that will enable scientists to increase cotton fabric life by many years, Dr. Vernon L. Frampton, University of Texas cotton researcher, has said.

The foot-piece was sent to the Army Quartermaster Corps laboratory in Philadelphia because the shoe contained powerful fungi that excreted enzymes which were eating the cotton fibres.

The army sent a culture of the fungi to the university's cotton research laboratory for study. Scientists here will try to find a way to counteract deterioration in cotton fabrics caused by fungi and bacteria by studying this particularly destructive culture, and developing a resistance to it in the cotton fiber.

Another laboratory project is the

The fatal fight took place last Sunday afternoon in a small cabin on a farm west of Haskell. With the two men were women companions who had been with them for several months. Both men had been drinking, it is said.

Milk Marketing Receipts.
Farmers probably will receive almost 4 billion dollars from marketings of milk and butterfat in 1949 compared with 4.4 billion in 1948. They will sell more milk than last year, but prices will run considerably lower. Net income of dairymen also may fall below 1948 since production costs probably will not drop as much as cash receipts.

Care of Eyes Is Prime Necessity In Early Years

Emphasizing the urgent need for parental supervision of all phases of child health, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said this week, "Much of the impaired eyesight of advanced years could be prevented if sufficient interest in early life were applied and a correction by means of temporary glasses made when required."

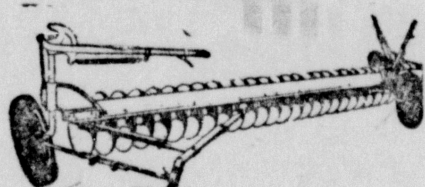

Parents, Dr. Cox asserted, should be watchful for danger signals in the child, such as frowning, squinting, persistent headache, eyeache, and watery eyes. If the youngster reads too closely or too far away from the face, that situation may also be significant of trouble.

"No child likes wearing glasses, nevertheless, it is the obligation of those responsible for the future of young folks to have their eyes examined by a reputable specialist if there is a suspicion that normal vision does not exist. It is much better for the child to wear glasses for a few years during early school life than to have permanently defective vision in later life," he declared.

Dr. Cox said that neglect of the eyes is by no means limited to children. Many older persons, some through vanity, indifference, or by carelessness, fail to give proper attention to the care of their eyes. Penalties, he warned, are bound to occur for such inexcusable negligence.

"The eyes of any person, whether young, middle-aged, or older, repre-

Memorial to a Soldier of Peace

The memory and work of Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. Mediator in Palestine who was slain in Jerusalem a year ago, is now permanently honored at United Nations headquarters by a bronze tablet. Here U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie, in a simple ceremony, unveils the tablet. Behind him are Dr. Ralph Bunche, who carried on Count Bernadotte's work in bringing peace to the Holy Land; Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent representative of the United Kingdom to U.N.; and Sven Grafstrom, permanent representative of Sweden, Count Bernadotte's native land, to the United Nations.

Bob Baskin Dam Site Rejected by Bureau

Harry P. Burleigh, area planning engineer for the Bureau Reclamation, told directors of the Bob Baskin Dam Association Tuesday night that the bureau would not recommend construction of the project.

Burleigh, who attended a meeting of the directors in Haskell, said water impounded by the proposed dam would be unfit either for human consumption or for municipal use.

A high content of sulphate, salt and gypsum are found in waters of the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos river, Burleigh said. The proposed dam would impound waters of the river.

Holly Toler, mayor, represented Hamlin at the Tuesday night meeting.

Knew What He Wanted.

Billy had been pestering his father for weeks on end to buy him a puppy.

"You can't have one just now," his father repeated for weeks on end. "You know very well that you soon will have a little baby brother or sister to play with so please stop asking for a dog."

About a week later his father told Billy that he had a brother and asked him if he would like to see him. Billy reluctantly agreed to go up to the bedroom to see his new playmate. He gazed scornfully at the red-faced, squawking infant and turned to his father.

"Daddy," he said, "I want a puppy."

Not That Important.

A very small boy had declined prunes so vociferously as to raise the whole matter to one of discipline rather than a pardonable foible. His mother told him that God would probably be displeased at his disobedience.

Later in the evening there came a heavy thunderstorm, and mother grasped this opportunity of going upstairs to heal the breach. She found the tiny mutineer standing in front of the window in an attitude of disgust.

"Huh!" he said defiantly, as a terrific peal of thunder shook the house, "all this fuss about six prunes."

The shades of night were falling fast.

Vets' Land Purchase Program Is Delayed

Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office and Chairman of the newly created Veterans Land Board, said today it is doubtful if any land purchases for Texas veterans will be completed before December 1.

"The first bonds will be offered for sale on October 26," the commissioner said, "and there is no reason to anticipate that money will be available for our actual use for at least thirty days."

"The thousands of inquiries we have received," Giles continued, "and other necessary delays are making us later than we had anticipated. We ask veterans and land owners to bear with us until we have secured the money to complete transactions."

Giles also requested veterans considering making applications to "take cognizance of our regulations and policies relative to mineral rights."

The statute creating the Veterans Land Program prohibited purchases unless 50 percent of the mineral rights were conveyed with the land. The Board, which is composed of the Governor, the Attorney General and Commissioner Giles, ruled at its first meeting that a six-month priority would be given applications which included all minerals or not more than a one-sixteenth outstanding royalty reservation made before June 6 1949.

"We are not approving transactions in which the present owner is seeking to retain mineral interest at the present time," Giles added. "Applications which do not conform to this policy are delaying the program by requiring the attention which could be used toward completion of conforming applications."

Southwest Farm Market Prices Turn Upward During Trading Last Week

Southwest farm products moved largely in steady to stronger markets during the past week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

Less cattle and sheep arrived at southwest and midwest markets last week than the week before, and more hogs and calves. Most changes were not large.

Cattle and calves sold unchanged to $1 higher for the week at Texas markets, and unchanged to 50 cents higher at Oklahoma City and Denver. However fed cattle gained around $1.50 at Denver, where choice steers reached $32, highest of the year.

Most markets paid around 50 cents more for hogs than a week ago. However, hogs and pigs closed unchanged at Fort Worth, as did all hog classes at San Antonio. Top hogs sold from $18.50 to $18.75 at Texas markets and at $19.25 at Denver.

Dressed beef advanced $2 to $6 at Eastern wholesale markets, but veal and calf sold weak to $2 lower. Other meats were steady to strong except Boston butts.

Spring chickens sold a little higher than a week earlier, but other eggs and poultry held about unchanged. Northwest Arkansas growers received mostly 28 cents a pound at the farm for 2 3-4 to 3 pound broilers. Best fryers brought 28 to 30 cents at Dallas, 27 to 30 at Fort Worth, 31 to 33 at New Orleans, and 22 to 25 at Denver.

Wheat, yellow corn and oats advanced 2 to 4 cents, as barley lost 5 to 7 cents a bushel, and sorghums declined 3 cents a hundred pounds. No. 1 hard wheat closed Monday at $2.35 1-4 to $2.41 1-4 at Texas common points. No. 2 milo brought $2.17 to $2.22.

Cotton advanced 25 to 50 cents a bale for the week. Spot middling 15-16 inch closed Monday at 28.80 cents a pound at Dallas, 29 at Houston, 29.10 at Galveston, 29.20 at New Orleans, and 29.50 at Little Rock.

Oysters Safe for Food Any Month if Rightly Handled

Some people claim oysters are good during the months which have R in their spelling.

But the Texas State Health Department says oysters are not safe any month, with or without the R, if the seafood has not been cultivated, shucked, packed, and shipped under sanitary conditions.

Texas' veteran state health officer, Dr. George W. Cox, says oysters have much to commend them as a source of food.

"They have protein of good quality, iron, and copper (important as a protection against anemia), iodine, which is essential to proper working of the thyroid gland, and a fair amount of vitamins," Cox says. But he adds emphatically, "Beware of uncertified oysters."

According to the doctor, each oyster grower in Texas is given a certificate of approval for the oyster bed he uses, provided health department officials find the beds free from pollution, and the shucking houses are clean and well-kept. Otherwise, no certificate.

Each shucking house (where oysters are opened) must have a certificate showing all employees are free from communicable diseases, especially typhoid fever. The certificates are issued annually.

The federal government cooperates with the state by keeping a list of all certified shippers in Texas. If a shipper isn't certified by the State Health Department, his oysters can't be shipped in interstate commerce. And since Texas has some fine oyster beds, Dr. Cox says the interstate commerce ruling is an incentive for oyster shippers to adhere to sanitary practices. Otherwise they miss the out-of-state market.

Advised by Physicians

ute diseases have a relatively onset, are accompanied by pronounced symptoms and cause almost immediate indisposition. These diseases usually run their course in a short time, resulting in recovery or death, depending upon the severity of the disease and the promptness and adequacy of treatment.

In contrast are chronic diseases which frequently have a slow onset without readily identifiable symptoms and without causing immediate indisposition. Pulmonary tuberculosis is a disease of the latter type.

Its symptoms may not become apparent until weeks or even months after the lung has become diseased and the individual may not be aware of his illness until the disease has progressed—unless he has formed the excellent habit of having his chest x-rayed at regular intervals. Since the x-ray can detect tuberculosis before a person knows he is ill, even apparently healthy people should have chest x-rays at least once a year.

Just as the onset of this chronic disease is slow, so is recovery. One of the first lessons the tuberculosis patient must learn is patience. He will, in all probability, be advised to enter a sanatorium or tuberculosis hospital because there he can obtain the rest, under medical supervision, which is so essential in treatment of tuberculosis.

As the patient responds to treatment and feels better he may think he can go home. However, he should not consider leaving the sanatorium until the doctor tells him it is perfectly safe for him to do so. He must remember that the doctor is better informed of his progress than the patient himself, and will advise him as soon as he can leave the hospital without endangering his health.

TB patients who leave the sanatorium against medical advice are running a two-fold danger. Their disease is apt to grow worse and a longer period of hospitalization will be required. Furthermore, the disease may still be communicable and he may endanger the health of relatives and friends.

Regardless of how well a TB patient may seem, both he and his family should realize that the safe course for all concerned is for him to remain in the hospital until he receives his medical discharge.
